

the murders. They all went, and while there an incident happened which mother related to me after.

Q. What was that?

A. That incident was that while going there, mother in her unhealthy condition didn't feel very well, and getting out of the car they had considerable climbing to do to find a suitable place to rest. When she reached there she was in such a condition she had to lie down. Mr. Hall was making her comfortable and Mrs. Hall looked at her in the most horrifying manner.

Q. Your mother said that?

A. Mother told me.

Q. What was it your mother said?

A. She said she hoped she would never see a human being give her a look like that again, because it was killing.

Q. When was that, the day before the murders?

A. The day before the murders.

Q. Do you know anything about Mrs. Hall inviting your mother up to see the garden?

A. Yes.

Q. What do you know about that?

A. My mother was invited up to see Mrs. Hall's garden of an evening and after she came from the garden she was invited on the porch. Sitting there Mrs. Hall offered to get her a cup of tea. She got her the tea and she was the only one
